Medivet's Graduate Support Programme (we call it the 'Residency programme') is designed to help you in the transition from student to independent clinician, and we tailor that to your own individual needs.

Our Support:

- Three to six months of one-to-one training, mentoring and support
- Neuter training in designated training clinics
- Training in our MRI and CT unit at one of our main hospitals
- Night training in critical care & emergency medicine
- Practical lab training doing cytology and haematology at our main laboratory
- Workshops on effective consulting techniques, great customer service, and more
- A day in a wildlife rescue centre

THE Vets

We love supporting new and recent graduates, and we're really good at it!

We pioneered the Buddy System where we provide you with a dedicated clinician to help you settle in after the Residency. They are your first point of call for advice, clinical or non-clinical, and they help make your integration into Medivet as smooth as possible.

Here's what our recent graduate veterinary surgeons had to say...

"Medivet's Graduate Support Programme gave me huge support by offering on-the-job training. This included key clinical skills as well as non-clinical ones, like communication training and customer service."

"I enjoyed absolutely everything, felt very welcomed and supported by everyone."

"Best way to start!"
